BRIEF STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is a personal injury case against a medical product manufacturer.

The plaintiff, Doris Jones, is a 53 year old woman who had a Bard Eclipse filter placed in her inferior vena cava ("IVC"), the vein that carries blood back to the heart. An IVC filter is intended to catch blood clots before they reach the heart or lungs. Defendants C.R. Bard, Inc. and Bard Peripheral Vascular designed, manufactured, and sold the Eclipse filter.

Ms. Jones alleges that the filter was defectively designed and that Defendants failed to warn about its risks. She alleges that she was injured by the filter, and she seeks to recover money from Defendants to compensate for her injuries and to punish Defendants for their allegedly wrongful conduct.

Defendants deny that their filter was defectively designed or that they failed to warn of its risks. Defendants contend that risks associated with Bard IVC filters are understood by the medical community and are considered by doctors when deciding whether to use them. Defendants assert that they are not responsible for any injuries or damages suffered by Doris Jones.

LENGTH AND SCHEDULE OF TRIAL

The trial is expected to last three weeks, and will begin on May 15, 2018. During trial, the jury generally will be in court Tuesday through Friday, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. There will be breaks during the day, including a one-hour lunch break.
